Dr. T. Keith Clemen, Director Sational Aeronautics and Space Administration Weshington 25, D. C.

Dear Dr. Glemmon:

The Mational Security Council his centered over-all responsibility for all fereign intelligence matters upon the U. S. Intelligence Board under the chairmental of the Director of Central Intelligence. In recent correspondence with the Secretary of Defence the Hourd has undertaken to establish priority national intelligence requirements for foreign space progress and activities, and also to provide other guidance and apport for resourch and development projects and operational activities of the Department of Defense in the ruels of space. Accordingly, the Board is now exploring meens and procedures by which such intelligencerequirements and intelligence-support needs in the general field of space can best be mot -- including particularly guidance and amport to space serveillance.

In view of the interests of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in these matters, I wish to essure you that the intelligence community stands ready to provide 📥 whatever appropriate guidance or support you believe might be useful to MASA. In any event, the intelligence community will undoubtedly be calling on MASA from time to time for support on intelligence problems related to space surveillance. You are already aware of the continuing relationship which has been established between NASA and CIA, for which Dr. Herbert Scoville, Jr., Assistant Director for Scientific Intelligence, is the focal point. I am asking that Dr. Socville also maintain lisison with you on the above problems.

Sincerely.

Allen W. Dulles

Director

SUBJECT:

When you passed the Quarles' letter to me some time back, you raised the question of a similar letter to the Director, MASA.

Attached hereto is a letter that I believe would be appropriate and would tie in the Board relationship. You are aware that OSI has had lisison with MASA for some time.
